The ethics and some principles of Permaculture

Permaculture ethics

- Care for the Earth
- Care for people
- Share resources

Some Permaculture principles

- Co-operation not competition.
- Bring food production back to the cities.
- Help make people self-reliant.
- Use everything to its highest capacity.
- See solutions, not problems.
- Things are multifunctional and work at least two ways.
- Work where it counts.
- Minimise maintenance and energy inputs to achieve maximum yields.